Welcome to the 2nd edition of 'The Studio' . The children have worked hard to produce an outstanding level of work this year in art. Mr. Clarke and I are amazed by the plethora of imaginative compositions, sculptures, designs and craft that have been created.

There is a distinct level of progression of skills seen across the school and every child has had the opportunity to experience a variety of mediums , where they have been encouraged to develop their own ideas and styles.

The expectation in the art department is extremely high and the children are encouraged to give of their best. I am sure you will agree that the caliber of work produced in this years magazine depicts the excellence that St. John's strives for.

Each year group has had a specific theme that has lead their learning. Art History has played a crucial role in helping the development of knowledge and understanding across the year groups.

We look forward to next years biannual art exhibition where you will be able to enjoy the celebration of creativity in the flesh.

Enjoy this photobook edition and we hope that you are inspired by the dedication and passion your children have conveyed in their work.

In Africa the speckled Guineafowls run amongst the savannah scrub looking for the rich insect life of the African plains. Their feathers iridescent in hot sun. They congregate in huddles talking to each other in low squeaks and warbles.

The Zulu Beer pot is an important symbol of togetherness in the Zulu culture. It brings families, friends, tribes and villages together in many traditional ceremonies. The zulu beer pot has become a symbol of peace. Made from clay earthed in the foothills of Kwa-Zulu Natal South Africa it is made paper thin and fired in the earth.

In Africa women carry heavy baskets of fruit and vegetables on their heads. Women in Africa have a hard life. Often you will see babies strapped to their backs while carrying heavy loads as there is not the infrastructure to support their travel. The Prep 2's learned about this in their Art History lesson and then created these wonderful and vibrant mixed media pieces using oil pastels, paint and collage materials.

F2 'Circus prints'

The children created these wonderful soft foam prints using a variety of printing ink colours to depict the excitement of the circus.

The F2's enjoyed creating these cubist clown faces using watercolour paint and charcoal.

The circus design posters were created using watercolour paint and pen.

The F2's enjoyed creating these little dwellings out of clay representing a miniature circus.
